

Presidio Promenade Accessibility Features

The Presidio Promenade is a relatively wide, gently sloping trail that has an average running slope, or grade, of 2.9% across its 2.1 mile length. It includes a mix of newly upgraded trail sections and pre-existing sidewalks. An overview of key terrain features are presented below. The steepest area of the trail reaches 10.8% for a short 100 foot section. Sections of trail that exceed 8% and 10% are highlighted in red in the Trail Elevation and Distance Profile. The trail surface is stable and firm, and protruding objects and other obstructing details are minimal.

Please note that weather conditions such as heavy rain or winds may affect accessibility and that trail conditions may have changed since this trail was assessed. Temporary obstacles such as fallen trees or construction detours were not mapped.

The trail is served at various points by the free, around the park PresidiGo shuttle. In addition, accessible parking is provided at several locations along the route at several locations (refer to map).
